1. 19 years old
2. Adoniram chose to give up the idea of running the school because he couldn't bear the thought of teaching for the rest of his life.
3. He refused to train to become a minister like his father. He told his father that he couldn't be a minister because, in his thinking, the Bible is not God's Word and no different from any other book.
4. Adoniram did not view Jesus as the Son of God. He only viewed Him as a good man. Adoniram's father fervently pleaded to the Lord for his son's soul. His mother wept, prayed, and begged until he could take no more.
5. A writer for a theater company.
6. He traveled to New York.
7. He met a young preacher to keep him company. Adoniram found himself talking to him about disappointments, doubts, hopes, and fears. Ultimately, the conversation led to the preacher's mention of Jesus.
8. Right next to the room he was staying in was a man ill and dying. His agonizing weeping and crying led his thoughts to his mortality and his eternal destination.
9. The man next door was Adoniram's atheist friend, Jacob Eames.

Chapter 2

1. Adoniram realized that even if he had known it was his friend who was dying, he could have done absolutely nothing to give him hope or to even comfort him.
2. He was welcomed with tenderness back to his home because his parents prayed every day many times a day that their son would come safely home and that he would come to faith in Jesus.
3. It didn't suit him well. Since He couldn't settle anything in Boston, he decided to go to a Bible College
4. He was convinced of God's saving grace through the truth of God's Word, based on the realization that God doesn't tell lies.
5. Adoniram requested to pray that they all may be humble and that they would want to show people Jesus rather than themselves.
6. He read of Burma where only one missionary was present and that no part of the Bible was yet translated into the native language.
7. The main difference between his first and second list is that he acknowledged God's sovereignty in his life and gave the Lord full control of his future in the second list.
8. The Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions was founded by the mention of the principle: "we'd better not attempt to stop God," at the end of the meeting.
9. That Jesus is faithful, His promises are precious, and that she could not decline an offer which she believes to be God's Will.

4. Although Ann has reasons to feel fearful, she assures herself that all she needs to know is that God is in this situation with her.
5. After leaving Rangoon, Adoniram was gone for a year.
6. She requested the Lord for a restless spirit if she were to leave the boat. After a sleepless night, the opportunity of leaving the boat came when the weight of the cargo caused danger for the journey. After returning to Rangoon, she was informed that Adoniram was alive. A few days later, they were reunited.
7. Adoniram suggested they build a zayat on pagoda street.
8. Maung Nau
9. According to Ann, their ministry was similar to Christ's because those who were receiving the gospel were the poor rather than the rich.

Chapter 7

1. Adoniram was headed to Ava, where the king's court was located.
2. He prayed as the pirates searched his luggage. His brown cloth which contained the translation work was still intact.
3. His concern was that their freedom to speak about God was being curtailed and that those who listened to them were persecuted and often taken into custody to be questioned.
4. Adoniram's goal was to ask for sufficient freedom of belief so that those who want to learn more about Christ would be able to learn without fear of the consequences.
5. A six-volume Bible covered in pure gold leaf. He wasn't in the least impressed with their gift.
6. He was even less impressed with their request.
7. She encouraged Adoniram by pointing out that there is now a Bible in the Golden Palace, and that God can use His Word to work in the people there.
8. Adoniram was thankful for his wife because she supported him in many ways, she did not complain about his long and frequent absences, and she always had a positive attitude even when circumstances discouraged him.
9. The three new converts were growing bolder day by day. They were always talking about Jesus despite the possibility of persecution. The Judsons were encouraged to see how God was at work in these new converts, and it gave them hope for the future works of God.

10. In this world, the rich are more important than the poor. But in the Christian faith, it is often the poor of the world who receive the truth, and earthly riches do not ultimately matter.

Chapter 8

1. The good news was that the believers in Rangoon grew to 10 total. The bad news was that the teacher was undergoing many trials and was being persecuted by the authorities.
